Thea Alexander has experienced her changes and passages since the first printing of 2150 AD, along with all those who followed the Macro Philosophy expressed in her writing. From time to time, I still read the Macro Philosophy books I purchased from her group in Tempe, AZ and have used them as a springboard to higher spiritual realities.

Many years ago, I encountered Thea Alexander's book, 2150 AD--one of the very few books that I read cover-to-cover in one sitting. The book is about a future society where ethical behavior has won out against the NWO fear mongering and the bulk of society now lives in a state of Macrophilosophy.

2150 AD - Wikipedia

The story of Jon and his adventures switching back and forth from the 1970s to 2150 AD is fascinating. Thea Alexander makes some profound statements here, but the one that stuck in my head the most was: "You are not responsible for anyone other than yourself". That simple statement caused me to look at my relationship with God again.
