A Philosophical Conception Of Propositional Modal Logic

This conception of a proposition was supported by the philosophical school of logical positivism. Some philosophers argue that some (or all) kinds of speech or actions besides the declarative ones also have propositional content. For example, yes–no questions present propositions, being inquiries into the truth value of them.

From a philosophical point of view, however, this traditional concep-tion of propositional modal logic has some unsatisfactory features, and in this paper, weshallargueforadi?erent conception. Underthe conception for which we argue, propositional modal logic ('ML') is concerned with propositions rather than sentences.

Act-Based Conceptions of Propositional Content ...

The notion of a propositional content plays a central role in contemporary philosophy of language. While the Fregean conception of propositions as mind-independent objects has dominated analytic philosophy, a number of philosophers have approached the notion of a propositional content instead by focusing on cognitive acts. The volume present a central selection of historical work and a range ...

A Philosophical Conception of Propositional Modal Logic ...

The term 'proposition' has a broad use in contemporary philosophy. It is used to refer to some or all of the following: the primary bearers of truth-value, the objects of belief and other "propositional attitudes" (i.e., what is believed, doubted, etc. []), the referents of that-clauses, and the meanings of sentences. One might wonder whether a single class of entities can play all ...

A Philosophical Conception of Propositional Modal Logic

The notion of a propositional content plays a central role in contemporary philosophy of language. Propositional content makes up both the meaning of sentences and the content of propositional attitudes such as belief. One particular view about propositional content has been dominant in analytic philosophy, namely the Fregean conception of propositions as abstract mind-independent objects that ...
