For instance, a tumor described as T1 is much smaller and confined than a tumor that is described as T4. Cancer staging depends on a combination of the three parameters (tumor size, lymph node involvement and spread of disease). A Stage I cancer therefore is a localized stage of malignancy. If a tumor is relatively small, has not invaded ...

A T3 line comprises 28 T1 lines, each operating at total signaling rate of 1.544 Mbit/s. It is possible to get a fractional T3 line, meaning a T3 line with some of the 28 lines turned off, resulting in a fractional transfer rate but typically at reduced cost.

Each of these data channels is designated a Digital Signal 0 (DS0), or a transmission rate of 64 kbit/s. One or more channels could be bundled for a leased-line customer, which is referred to as fractional T1 or a customer could use and pay for the full T1 bandwidth. T1 is used most widely in North America and is the European variant of T1.

Construct a duration from the counts. The fractional_second parameter is a number of units of time, therefore affected by the resolution the application is compiled with (see Build-Compiler Information). If the fractional_seconds argument exceeds the limit of the compiled precision, the excess value is "carried over" into the seconds field.
