The slope-intercept form of a linear equation Earlier in this chapter we have expressed linear equations using the standard form $Ax + By = C$. Now we're going to show another way of expressing linear equations by using the slope-intercept form $y = mx + b$.

Slope/Slope-Intercept form Practice An equation in the slope-intercept form is written as $y = mx + b$ Where m is the slope of the line and b is the y -intercept. You can use this equation to write an equation if you know the slope and the y -
