My overall opinion is that 5w20 with ceratec is better than 5w20 without one, so maybe it is not very concerning to run 5w20 with ceratec in the engine long term or even at track. Having said that, I am not oil additive proponent and never added oil additive in engine previously. But since I have it in the engine anyways...

5w20 will have slightly more mileage, but it's very minor. They had to make some design decisions with modular engines due to the thin oil. 5w20, being thinner, gets hotter, and that's why Ford had to go with a high volume oil pump and higher capacity oil pans than previous engines (6 quarts on the 4.6L and 7 on the 5.4L).

5w30 Verses 5w20? | 2009 - 2014 Ford F150 Truck Forum

Ford switched to 5w30 for all of the mod motors, and probably others, in the early 00's I think it was. In laymans terms 5w30 will prolong engine life but reduce power output (negligable) and 5w20 will shorten engine life but will free up more power (again, negligable). Youre really not going to notice a difference between the two.
