The Honda CBR1100XX Super Blackbird was a range topper in its day, meaning it's reasonably well spec'd up. Comfort's pretty good although the bars have to be quite low due to the high top speed.

The Honda CBR1100XX Super Blackbird is a useable, comfortable, tidy handling sports tourer but also a ballistic powerhouse that used to hold the record as the fastest production motorcycle. Honda's Super Blackbird - a bike so fast, so cool, so damn good, that its name is still spoken with respect, admiration and hushed tones even though production ended in 2007. First emerging in 1996, and instantly crowned 'world's fastest bike', the official name came from the headline-making SR71 Blackbird, Lockheed's stealthy spy ...

Honda's CBR1100xx blends comfort and handling into a fast and refined package. Honda didn't just focus on horsepower and torque (although it has scary amounts of both) but they created a wonderful looking, comfortable motorcycle that can be ridden for hours and hours. The Super Blackbird was the cats meow back in the late 90's and early 2000's.
