Amos Rapoport is the first author who comprehensively list cultural aspects about "house form", that he examined using anthropological discipline. He termed "modifying factors" to specify non-architecture aspects that determine the architectural form and functions. Two parts that he discussed: Modifying Factors of House Form (factors that directly affect form) Socio-cultural factors and house ...

It is not a real need but a symbol. This symbol means a freestanding, single family house, not a row house, and the ideal of home is aesthetic, not functional. In a recent advertising showing 49 new uses of aluminum in a house, the form of the house is colonial – the symbol of home to many Americans even in a twentieth century material.
