3. NAD amplifier design which always seems to provide better peak handling power than expected given the conservative power rating. The L40 is a perfect fit and provides a very musical sound under imperfect conditions. If it can handle this room, it should handle most non-critical applications with little fanfare and great sound.

The NAD L40 is a very easy to use and powerful enough for casual use. Since we do not play metal, rap or coronary inducing grand organ music, this was enough for our jazz, vocal and occational salsa orchestra dance music. As far as ability to play loud and cleanly, we have yet to tax the system, rarely gone past halfway on the volume dial.

The NAD website does have IR codes for quite a few of their older equipment, but not for the L40. It is possible to upgrade the 8350 by playing a WAV file while holding the remote next to a speaker, but it would be pretty laborious to try all the various possible signals. One obvious approach would be to use a Logitech Harmony remote.
