Just blagged a small Norfrost chest freezer, but I don't have the instructions. There's an illuminated switch next to the thermostat which I assume is a "fast freeze" switch or suchlike. What exactly does it do? does it bypass the thermostat so the temperature drops below the set point or does it actually make the temperature drop more quickly?

Freezer Question | MIG Welding Forum

I also looked on Google and it is a company called Icotech which makes Norfrost freezers so you may want to contact them to see if they have got an old instruction manual. Perhaps the thermostat is not working properly if the freezer is very old so maybe it just needs a new thermostat. Hope this helps.
