Why did Samuel Pepys begin, in January of 1660, to keep a journal, which he continued until the last day of May 1669, when he believed himself obliged to stop writing shorthand for fear of going blind? When he began the Diary he was nearly twenty-seven, and had been married to Elizabeth St Michel since 1655. Five months after the final entry his wife died.

Samuel Pepys FRS was an administrator of the navy of England and Member of Parliament who is most famous for the diary he kept for a decade while still a relatively young man. Pepys had no maritime experience, but he rose to be the Chief Secretary to the Admiralty under both King Charles II and King James II through patronage, hard work, and his talent for administration. His influence and reforms at the Admiralty were important in

The impending war between the English and Dutch saw a catastrophe preceding and then playing out in tandem with the outbreak of plague that swept London in 1665. While largely separate tragedies, war and pestilence became a meeting point between two early modern diarists, Samuel Pepys and John Evelyn.
