Spud: Learning to Fly is the third novel in John van de Ruit's series about sixteen-year-old Spud Milton, detailing the time that he attends school in South Africa in the 1990s. This series of books is one of my favorites, and it is really similar to Louise Rennison's Angus, Thongs, and Full-Frontal Snogging , but maybe directed at a more male adolescent audience instead of Rennison's female one.

Spud 3: Learning to Fly (2014) - IMDb

Spud is a 2005 novel by South African author, actor, playwright and producer, John van de Ruit. A comedic sometimes sad yet straight forward novel that captures the humor of life in boarding school, through the diary of John 'Spud' Milton. The book is written in the style of a diary. The story begins on the morning of Spud's first day at a private boarding school, following his year and experiences with the often eccentric characters found in the school environment. The diary also follows Spud's
