One friend who had walked the Camino advised me to prepare by ramping up to at least 10 miles a day before leaving. I did nothing of the sort. Instead, I rushed to San Diego's REI store the day pair of hiking boots, a water bottle, and moisture-wicking clothes—everything that a person who'd properly thought things through would have bought and packed already.

Camino Stories: One Good Turn. This is the happy sequel to my Camino story about the Pole in the Rain that I published a couple of weeks ago.. Leaving the albergue in Portomarin early that May to Gonzar where we stopped for a drink and snack – and for me to change my sweat-soaked shirt.. Refreshed by the food, drink (and change of shirt!) we walked on briskly.
