The neatest part is that it folds open to create a little changing area. If you like to hike or go to dirty places, or just want to be extra clean during these strange times, you can fold it out, and have something like a small basket to put your baby in while you change him or her. It even has metal bars to make it sturdy.

I did it to use with my XK K110 collective-pitch micro-copter (works great). I wrote up what I did, though I admit freely my 'solution' is not nearly the neatest/cleanest. It does work and I can use the 4-in-1 to fly dang near anything with my i6x now (w/in reason... the radio has 10ch, so obviously, nothing that needs more than that).
