These are the most common types of characters in the Disney theme parks: dressed in a mascot-style costume with oversized hands, heads (with limited peripheral vision) and feet. A host often accompanies them to help guide them around the park. Unlike the face characters, most of them cannot speak (originally they could, but the restriction occurred in the 1960s, due to the fact that, as former ...

The Slide-Rock Bolter (Macrostoma saxiperrumtus) is a bizarre creature recounted by the lumberjacks of North America during the 19th and early 20th centuries. It is believed to live in the mountains of Colorado, but this beast only lived in the mountains where the slope was more than a 45-degree angle. It has an immense head, with small eyes, and a large mouth. It has a tail ending in a fluke ...
