The pursuit of happiness only leads us down empty trails, and it's addictive, always requiring additional treks. Happiness promises so much but delivers so little. The word is momentary, just like a drug induced high. Happiness is fleeting! If happiness is my highest value, then I can be controlled by its pursuit.

The Pursuit of Happiness as the Exercise of Virtue. In this last quote we can see another important feature of Aristotle's theory: the link between the concepts of happiness and virtue. Aristotle tells us that the most important factor in the effort to achieve happiness is to have a good moral character — what he calls “complete virtue.”
